

Inner Complexity:
An introduction to
Landscape of the Mind

Film Launch

WHEN: Wednesday 29th June 2011, at 2:30pm

WHERE: The London School of Economics
London WC2

The launch of a ground-breaking management learning resource. Landscape of the Mind's innovative model of psychological functioning offers a radically new and practical approach to the challenges facing organisations today.

The film covers case studies of real-world projects on business-critical topics such as leadership, innovation, talent management and sustainability, and includes a unique method for identifying under-used talents. Interviews with users talking about their experiences of applying Landscape of the Mind are included, as well as the results of an fMRI brain scanning study.

For business leaders, executives, management and organisation developers, HR professionals, academics involved in work with organisations, policy makers and those tasked with achieving more with less.

To book your free place, contact complexitygroup@lse.ac.uk

"Great minds don't think alike"